

Democratic Senators at Stag Dinner Move to Close Their Ranks

WASHINGTON — A dinner party took place in the Capital the other night that did not get into the social news columns—and for a very good reason.

The gathering was a stag affair attended by some thirty Democratic senators, plus Vice President Jack Garner and Postmaster General Jim Farley. Host was Pennsylvania's bachelor Senator Joe Guffey.

Up to the cigars and coffee, the dinner was no different than any other social get-together. But the rest of the evening was very different. There was plain talking about personal and party matters.

Garner did not speak. But Big Jim Farley and Floor Leader Joe Robinson made up for him.

Joe charged flatly that "certain radical Democratic senators" were secretly allied with the Republican Party in an effort to destroy the Administration. The Arkansas mentioned no names. But his listeners had no doubt about the identity of at least one man — Kingfish Huey Long.

"I concluded on a personal note," As Floor Leader of our party in the Senate I have been the object of bitter attack from certain quarters. I want to say to you gentlemen that I am prepared to relinquish my post freely and willingly any time my colleagues desire me to do so.

"This declaration aroused a dramatic response. Those present rose to their feet as one, cheered and applauded their floor leader.

Big Jim was no less frank. "I have been around quite a bit in recent weeks," he said. "And, just between us here in these four walls, there is no question that the Administration has lost some ground. That means we must close up our ranks, cut out this pulling and hauling and bickering among ourselves.

"You gentlemen have been taking it on the chin. Well, I too have been getting plenty of hammering. And I don't mean only on Capitol Hill. Some of my colleagues are a bit remiss when it comes to co-operation. But I'm not complaining. The President is boss and he is the man I'm serving.

Brevity

● The record for the shortest letter exchanged between Congress and the Cabinet is held by Texas' pungent Maury Maverick and Agriculture's Undersecretary Rex Tugwell.

They met by accident in a Washington restaurant, after Maverick had written Tugwell in plain terms about a speech of the latter and what Tugwell should do to improve the next one.

On meeting Tugwell, Maverick was surprised to find that the Brain Trustee was not so sure. When he got home he dictated a formal letter, the entire text of which read:

"I am glad."
In reply he received a letter from Tugwell which read:
"So was I."

Self-Appointments

At no time since the career diplomatic clique ruled the State Department under Calvin Coolidge have the career boys had such a field day as at present.

They are appointing themselves to all the ripest and juiciest diplomatic posts. A long list of these is in the works. It includes:

George Gordon, now counselor of the American Embassy at Rio de Janeiro, who became American Minister to Paraguay.

Leo J. Keena, now consul-general in Paris, who is to be American Minister to Honduras.

PLAN OUTLINED FOR CLOSE OF CITY SCHOOLS

Graduation Rites to be Unique; Largest Class in History Listed

LEIST TO SPEAK

Next Tuesday Final Day for 80 Seniors

Complete plans for graduation exercises of Circleville high school were announced today by E. I. Gephart, principal. The commencement will be Tuesday, June 4, with the baccalaureate June 2 at the Methodist Episcopal church.

The commencement this year will be unique for two reasons. First, there will be no out-of-town speaker, members of the class and an alumnus having parts in the program. Second, the class is the largest in the school's history, 80 being candidates for graduation.

Four Addresses

Speakers will include, in the order they will appear on the program; Virginia Caskey, salutatorian, whose subject will be "The Boston Latin Grammar School," the first American high school organized in 1635; Marie Briner, valedictorian, who will speak on "Development of American High Schools"; Carl Leist, member of the class of 1926, whose subject will be "Development of High School Education in Circleville"; and Otis Mader, class orator, who will speak on "The Present High School."

The theme to be carried out in the commencement is the trend of high school education. This is the 300th anniversary of the organization of the first high school and is being observed nationally.

Other parts of the program will be: music by the orchestra, glee club selections, invocation, remarks by Supt. Frank Fischer who will explain the program; a violin solo

FIVE STUDYING RELIEF NEEDS

Investigators Sent Into Homes of Circleville Relief Clients

The relief program was speeded up today with Otto S. Coffey, director, sending five case investigators into homes of Circleville clients to determine the extent of their need.

Three investigators were sent here from C. C. Stillman's office in Columbus while Mr. Coffey transferred two county case workers into Circleville until the situation is cleared up.

Because the program was resumed at short notice it was necessary to issue emergency orders to provide clients with necessities. The case workers will determine to what extent they need relief, if they are now getting too much or not enough.

Urges Patience

Coffey urged relief clients to be patient.

Thursday morning a group of about 70 persons seeking relief filled the hall leading into the relief office. Mr. Coffey went into the hall to urge them to go to their homes and wait for the case workers to arrive. He made a brief talk in which he urged their co-operation and at its conclusion was heartily cheered by the clients, all of whom left the building.

COLUMBUS, May 23—Seeking to "weed out" all persons not entitled to relief and also to determine whether legitimate relief clients are being aided on an equitable basis, all relief lists in Ohio are being re-examined, Charles C. Stillman, state FERA administrator, announced today.

Stillman said similar re-examination of relief lists are being conducted in all other states throughout the nation.

CANTOR UNDER KNIFE

HOLLYWOOD, May 23 — Eddie Cantor, film and radio star, who underwent a major operation to correct a stomach ailment at the Good Samaritan hospital here was said to be recovering nicely today.

"Mr. Cantor's condition is very good," hospital attaches said. The comedian was under the care of Dr. Elmer Belt who performed the operation late yesterday.

82 ENJOY "STAG" AT COUNTRY CLUB

Youths Put on Puppet Show, Haacker Plays Accordion for members, Guests

The most successful stag party since the organization of the club was the term used by Pickaway Country club members today to describe the party Wednesday evening. Eighty-two persons attended.

The committee in charge was comprised of Will G. Hamilton, Vattier Courtwright and Tom Brunner.

Golf was enjoyed in the afternoon by members and non-members the party being an "open house" affair. At 6:30 steak and french fries were served and the evening brought forth much entertainment.

A program was presented with Philip Moore, Jimmy Moffitt and Martin Walters putting on their "puppet" show. All the "stags" enjoyed the show and at its conclusion Hillaire Haacker played his accordion to the delight of the gathering.

The date for the next party has not been determined.

MAN FORGETS HE'S MARRIED 9 TIMES

CHICAGO, Ill., May 23—Ralph Marks, 40, was waiting in a jail cell today to see how the law would attempt to cure him of the marriage habit.

It's a regular disease with Ralph. He's been married nine times and never bothered to divorce any of his wives. Twice he was sentenced to prison in New York for bigamy, but that didn't help. The last time he violated his parole from the Great Meadow prison in Constock, N. Y., and is wanted there for breaking it.

SENATE MOVES TO BACK VETO

Votes This Afternoon; Margin of Four Seen; Thomas Warns of Oblivion

WASHINGTON, May 23—Fighting desperately to override President Roosevelt's veto is the senate, friends of the Patman bonus bill today predicted political oblivion for those who failed to support it.

Twenty three senators who voted against the same measure in 1932 are not here today, Senator

UNDERWOOD FOR BONUS

Congressman Mel G. Underwood, of New Lexington, voted with 12 other Ohio Democrats and four Republicans to override the Roosevelt veto of the bonus bill. Two Republicans and four Democrats followed the lead of the president and voted against the measure.

Thomas (D) of Oklahoma, senate bonus leader told his colleagues in opening the final round of debate. "Where have they gone?" he asked. "They have gone to oblivion, and are forgotten."

Moves Toward Vote

Thomas' appeal came as the senate moved toward a vote on his motion to override Mr. Roosevelt's rejection. He led a fiery verbal barrage against the presidential reasoning in the veto.

Notwithstanding the last-ditch fight of supporters, a final check up indicated that at least 36 senators would vote to sustain the president. That is four more than are necessary to prevent writing the bill into law.

The president's veto arguments, said Thomas, were not justified. The Patman bill he said would help the nation to recovery and pay a long standing debt to the veterans.

Now is the time the soldiers need the money, not 1945, argued the Oklahoman. No one knows, he went on, what the dollar will be worth in 1945. Already it is worth only 59 cents in terms of the old dollar. It may have less value in 1945.

PAROCHIAL AID VOTE IS AGAIN TURNED DOWN

House Finance Group Voted 11-11 with 12 Needed to Pass Issue

BEATEN THIRD TIME

Hunsicker Votes to Keep Bill in Committee

COLUMBUS, May 23—For the third straight time, the finance committee of the state house of representatives today refused to report out the Davis parochial school bill. The vote was 11 to 11. Twelve votes were required.

Defeat of the measure for the third time followed the appearance of Speaker J. Freer Bittinger before the committee to again urge that the bill be reported out to give the members of the House an opportunity of acting upon it on the floor.

Hunsicker Votes No

The committee's vote on the measure follows:

Those voting "yes" were: Boyd (D) of Cuyahoga, Traxler (D) of Wyandot, Kaser (D) of Shelby, Anderson (D) of Licking, DeRichter (D) of Cuyahoga, Lutz (D) of Richland, McInturf (R) of Morgan, Nixon (D) of Jefferson, Armbruster (D) of Henry, Kalb (D) of Ottawa, and Schwellert (D) of Putnam.

Those voting "no" were: Cordes (R) of Hamilton, Creech (R) of Ashtabula, Hunsicker (D) of Pickaway, Jones (R) of Meigs, Maurey (R) of Summit, Johnson (R) of Fulton, Grubbs (R) of Fayette, King (R) of Vinton, Maxwell (D) of Deafiance, Metcalf (R) of Franklin and Rogers (R) of Lorain.

For the first time, the parochial school bill was labeled publicly as a Davey administration measure just before it was rejected a third time by the finance committee.

Addressing his colleagues in behalf of the Davis bill, which would appropriate $3,000,000 to parochial schools for 1935 and 1936 and $2,000,000 to colleges not now receiving state aid, Rep. W. M. Boyd (D) of Cleveland, who frequently speaks for the administration, said:

Governor's Program

"The parochial school bill was a part of the governor's campaign and we should not kill it in committee. It was one of the governor's promises that, if elected, he would try to put this bill through the legislature."

After the bill's third defeat in committee, it was rumored that the rules committee might arbitrarily place it on the House calendar without the consent of the finance committee.

GOVERNOR VETOES GINGHER MEASURE

COLUMBUS, May 23 — The sixth veto message of the Davey administration, rejecting the Gingham bill which would have prohibited public schools from buying furniture and other manufactured products of Ohio penal institutions, was sent to the legislature today.

Davey said he saw merit in the principle of the bill, to take the government and its institutions out of competition with private enterprise, but sales of prison and reformatory made furniture are so small that there would be no perceptible benefit to industry by curtailing them.

On the other hand, the governor cited, if the Gingham bill became a law it would result in enforced idleness of 50 to 100 men in the Mansfield reformatory.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 23—Texas and Oklahoma today anxiously watched the course of flooded waters sweeping wide lowland areas here and in the Guadalupe river valley of Texas.

Relief officials counted approximately 2,500 homeless in the two flooded regions.

The North Canadian river threatened to engulf the Oklahoma City lowlands where hundreds of families were ready to leave their homes for higher ground. One bridge was swept away near Yukon by the rampaging river.

The Guadalupe had submerged more than 90,000 acres of rich farm lowland in Texas.

DENVER, May 23—Flood waters of Cherry Creek, swollen by almost continuous rains of the past two weeks, were expected to strike Denver early today.

Reports from the Black Forest southeast of Castle Rock, Colo., said the stream was overflowing its banks there.

Warnings were sent to persons living along the creek, which flows through the heart of Denver, to be ready to move out of their homes at the sound of police sirens. Special crews of workmen were called out to protect bridges and a ripraping project under construction.

Another half inch of rain had been recorded here today, the total Wednesday being 45 of an inch. Rain Thursday morning is believed to have boosted the total to one half inch.

A large tree on W. Mound-st fell into the middle of the road during the night obstructing traffic. Workmen removed it Thursday morning.

SIX NAVY MEN LOST AS HUGE 'PLANE FALLS

Search Abandoned for Flyers, Victims of 'War Games in Pacific

TOLL IS NOW EIGHT

41 Planes Returning to Pearl Harbor Base

ABOARD U. S. S. PENNSYLVANIA, with U. S. Fleet, May 23 —The navy today abandoned search for the wrecked bombing plane in which six men lost their lives.

Rear Admiral A. W. Johnson, commanding the aircraft base force and in charge of the search, recalled planes and destroyers when only wreckage was found at the spot where the big seaplane crashed yesterday.

The recovered wreckage included a gasoline tank, a wingtip and a seacover.

Those killed were:

Lieut. Harry A. Brandenburg, 37, of Illinois.
Lieut. Charles J. Skelly of California.

Chief Machinists Mate P. C. Liff.

Chief Radioman F. M. Derry.
Machinists Mate Q. A. Sharpe.
Machinists Mate P. J. Proteau.

The lost plane was one of the 43 big bombers which flew from Pearl Harbor to Midway island two weeks ago and since had been operating as part of Rear Admiral A. J. Heppburn's "Black" fleet in the navy's war games.

Set Fine Record

A remarkable record had been established by the plane, the first to ever fly over Midway island. During the third phase of the fleet problem the big bombers have been operating night and day, sometimes going as far as 600 miles from their anchorage.

Monday another plane was wrecked but the crew was rescued by the destroyer Montgomery. This plane, operating as a scouting unit for Admiral Harris Lanning's "white" fleet enroute from Pearl Harbor to take Midway island which was occupied by 700 marines from the "black" force which had swept down from the Aleutian islands.

The plane landed 90 miles north of Midway and sank just as the Montgomery took off the crew. Another plane made a forced landing when it came down out of oil at Layson island 70 miles east of Midway but a tug took oil to it and the plane returned safely to its base.

Reduced from 43 to 41 the squadron of bombers will take off for Pearl Harbor sometime today stopping tonight at French frigate shoals.

The squadron of 41 hopes to complete the 1,200 mile jaunt to Pearl Harbor by Friday night.

As the search for survivors of the ill-fated bomber which crashed in the smooth sea, under a clear but moonless sky was called off the planes, cruisers and destroyers of the searching party headed for Pearl Harbor in the wake of Admiral Joseph M. Reeves and the remainder of the fleet.

Eight Lives Lost

During the third phase of the war games, eight men have been killed, and four injured. Three planes have been lost and four destroyers damaged.

The destroyers Buchanan and Decatur while fueling at sea were thrown against the battleships which were servicing them and damaged so badly they were forced to return to Pearl Harbor for repairs, but no personnel was injured on either destroyer.

FRIEDMAN STORE IS POPPY OFFICE

Saturday is Poppy Day in Circleville and the Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts sponsored by the Legion and Auxiliary will be on the streets selling these bright red poppies.

Poppies to you, perhaps, are just crumpled rosettes of crimson paper to wear once a year for memory's sake; but to the man whose thick, stiff, slow-moving fingers have fashioned them they are little, bright red doors to the land of opportunity. Their scarlet petals are not mere slips of tissue at all, but gay flags to signal pennies into their pockets; and to transform dragging, bleak hours into hurrying, sunshiny minutes.

The poppies which the American Legion Auxiliary sells on Poppy Day are made by disabled veterans in hospitals in our own state, and to some are their only means of self-support.

Poppy headquarters will be at Friedman's store, W. Main-st. Everyone should wear a Poppy Saturday.

Recognition

Chairman Ambrose Kennedy of the House Claims Committee has a way all his own for putting a quietus on overzealous rookie colleagues.

At a recent meeting of the committee, Philadelphia's ambitious newcomer J. Burrwood Daly spoke long and loud on the legal aspect of a number of bills under consideration.

Kennedy listened patiently. When Daly finally concluded Kennedy gravely moved that thereafter all claim cases requiring a legal opinion be turned over to the Philadelphia for a written report.

The motion passed unanimously and Daly was preening himself on this unexpected recognition when Kennedy quietly observed:

"The distinguished member will be pleased to know, I am sure, that we already have 1400 cases on file awaiting his learned attention."

SENIORS HAVE THEIR SAY

THEY are beginning to appear in the news of the day — the most popular member of the graduating class, the one voted most likely to succeed, the most beautiful (of either sex), the best dresser, the biggest fusser, and all the rest. They join the outstanders of former years, some to go on to further triumphs in life, some to fade into obscurity, mostly by the way of matrimony and such dull pursuits.

Times have not been propitious for these choices in all cases, although as a general proposition the clever boy or girl remains clever through life. The young minds that make the selections are not fooled as often as one might suppose. So there is hope for the college heroes and heroines, even for the biggest fusser. And to be known as the best dressed man of the class of '35 is not, in itself, anything to worry about. It may help in getting that needful job.

Beauty, prizes be, is not the whole thing, even for the girls. The pictures that go with the stories prove that, although there is a universality of "smart-looking" young persons (in the old-fashioned sense of intelligence) that gives profound satisfaction. Some of those in the middle of the class, however, are likely to provide a majority of the really "successful" ones (the ones that make the most money) a quarter-century from now. Of course the mere making of money is not a complete gauge of success, but as a usual thing it helps a lot.

Tastes change with maturity. Some of the glad answers of senior class questionnaires in men's and women's colleges may be assumed years hence on recalling the enthusiasm with which they voted for Ginger Rogers and Clark Gable as their favorite thespians. Cador ruka in most of these replies and it reaches its apogee when the sweet girl graduates-to-be of Barnard admit that men are the most important single item in their minds. One wonders whether the same is true when they name champagne as their favorite beverage.

At any rate, for woe or woe, here they come with their preferences, characteristics, high aims, ambitions and what makes, in college, for popularity. Good luck to them in the fate that lies ahead.

It's a fast age. A boy dates a girl once or twice and the wedding is planned before he knows it.

The latest scientific theory is that the universe was born in a fog, which suggests that perhaps we've run the gamut and have gotten back to the starting point.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Meeker Terwilliger, prominent Circleville attorney and president of the local Rotary club, was elected governor of the 22nd district of Rotary at a conference held in Dayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Harp Van Riper, of Watt-st, were hosts at a dinner-bridge at the Boggs hotel. Fourteen of the guests were residents of Portsmouth.

Probate Judge E. A. Brown delivered an address at a meeting of the Rotary club. His subject was "Wills and Their Value."

15 YEARS AGO

Members of the Order of Eastern Star from Portsmouth, Chillicothe, Washington C. H., Adelphi and Williamsport attended the annual inspection of the Circleville chapter, conducted by Deputy Grand Matron Anita Rowe, of Washington C. H.

The young ladies of the Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal church gave a party for the young men of the same organization. A comedy farce "Help," was presented.

The county commissioners passed a resolution protesting against the proposed increase in telephone rates.

25 YEARS AGO

The report of the assessor showed that the Hartman farm of 3,929 acres produced 7,500 bushels of wheat, 3,900 bushels of corn, 1,500 bushels of potatoes and 600 bushels of onions. From the dairy, 126,000 gallons of milk were sold, and the Hartman hens produced 16,000 dozen eggs.

The handsome while marble baptismal font, the gift of E. F. Anderson to the Methodist Episcopal church, was formally presented to the congregation.

Pickaway-co Republicans endorsed Renick W. Dunlap for a third term as dairy and food commissioner.

STORMY LOVE

A YOUNG NAVY MAN'S ROMANCE

BELLE BURNS GROMER

READ THIS FIRST:

After bidding goodby to his childhood sweetheart, Janice Edging, who is sailing for the United States where her father, Captain Edging, has been assigned to the Sound Navy Yard, as a Lieutenant, Valentin Preston, attached to a gunboat in China, sees an attractive girl in a passing ricksha on the streets of Shanghai. He recognizes her as the same girl who had delayed his visit to Janice's liner in the harbor by taking the last sampin in sight from the pier. Following in another ricksha, both alight at the same hotel. They become engaged in conversation, have a cocktail together and Val learns she is from South Carolina. Later he excuses himself and goes to the bar alone. Finding the girl still in the cocktail lounge alone, Val joins her again and discovers her name is Lia Clarenne. She says she is lonely and they agree to take dinner together later.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 9

TWO YEARS of battleship duty had been grind enough for Val. After that, if he were able to waste a pleasant interval on the Mediterranean and another out here in the Asiatic, more power to him. Through the years he had managed well enough by not taking anything seriously and letting a reprimand slide off his good humor like water off a duck's back. The only real ship-drawn he had ever known was when the skipper of his ship on the South China patrol blew up because Val spent too much time playing polo in Victoria and poker in Macao. Even now he could hear the old man roaring, "Preston, you're an ace under pressure, but when it comes to routine, you are careless and indifferent. You want always to bat and never to field. And by gad, sir, that makes a damned poor naval officer!"

When this irate skipper saw to it that he was ordered to another ship, he had come north to join the old gunboat Moyan. But ten months ago had occurred another involuntary transfer to the Yangtze; and there he had been ordered to the Yangtze. He wondered if this change also had been by request of his superior officer. If so, it wasn't going to look so hot on his record.

And yet, Jan Edging had been all wrong in the things she'd said to him today. How many seniors really wanted their junior officers to be so initiated? Let a youngster try to assume any responsibility in this man's navy, let him hazard an independent action, and see how far he'd go before being stepped on. Hadn't he tried it? And what had it profited him?

Look at the time he had brought the Moyan safe through a critical situation. It was bitter real that this most worth while thing he had ever achieved should have evoked only ridiculed laughter and been christened "Preston's brain throb."

He could still feel the thrill of that night in Chefoo when unexpected orders had come through for the ship to proceed at once from the North China port to the Philippine naval base at Cavite. The skipper ashore, in hospital with a severe attack of dysentery, it was up to Val to take the ship out. He recalled how his heart had beaten high in his throat with the half-fearful excitement of assuming his first command. He hadn't guessed that before the first day was over he'd be in for a grilling contest, with his seamanship pitted against the power of a hang-up typhoon.

It had been a tense struggle. Driven off the course, the wireless helplessly smashed, at daybreak the ship lost her rudder. And although the storm was more than half spent, it was the lost rudder that almost defeated Val. The old gunboat had only a single propeller and therefore could not be maneuvered by means of her engines. By evening, however, he had rigged a "jury" sail and had managed to make a lee in a sheltered cove near an isolated port. There he might have stayed until, at great expense and time and money, other naval ships had come in search of him. But his pride would not permit his first command to end so ignominiously. And so he had pitched in to install a temporary device that should carry them on their way.

One summer at Mare Island his dad and he had experimented with their own plan for a rudder on an old launch they had tinkered with. And so, because it was familiar to him, Val worked like a fiend to devise some such invention for the Moyan. This innovation was built on aeronautical principles, a streamline form much like the wing of an airplane being used to reduce disturbing currents and eddies. Of course, it was a crude affair, but he saw it placed as securely as possible and with his heart in his throat set out again into the tempestuous Yellow Sea.

Almost at once, fatigue forgotten, he was elated to see how greatly resistance to the ship's speed was reduced; now, it was possible to keep her on a straighter course than hitherto; and she left practically unbroken waters in which the propeller could work. On his arrival at the Cavite yard he was convinced that he had stumbled on something vitally important. His improvised rudder, he believed, was beautiful; and by its reduction of resistance it would save untold dollars in fuel oil.

Even when the seniors met, the Cavite yard laughed at his makeshift, he was fired with enthusiasm. When they reminded him that he had had a following wind and that pitiful currents on his journey south, he continued to argue his point. But after they refused to give his claims a fair trial and, junking his brain child, replaced it with regulation parts, he subsided into silence. Inwardly he raged, "To hell with these old barnacles! They've never had an original idea and want no one else to dare one. Let them laugh and be damned. I'll show them yet!"

He had high-handed plans for proving his invention to the powers that be in loftier places than the Cavite yard. He determined to get at the perfecting of detailed drafting. But first he took time out to indulge in a lusty drinking bout with a civilian friend in Manila; following that he was badly needed on the polo team and later a certain charming little widow came to visit the wife of one of his classmates. He was really pretty busy. And after all, if the government didn't want its fuel oil saved, he should lash himself into a fury over it. All of which, he thought as he vent about his dressing, brought him back to the contention that Jan had been unfair to him today. And yet, since she had meant her criticism in a friendly way, he wished that he had been pleasant about it. Jan had been a sweet kid. For almost a year they had been running across each other in Nanking, Hankow, Shanghai; and he was going to miss her like the very devil. His mouth twisted into a half-bitter smile as he remembered that Kent Townley was in love with her, that there was a moonlit voyage ahead of them, and that by the time the Taft reached San Francisco there would, no doubt, be another wedding gift for a hard-working young naval lieutenant to buy.

He paused to stare blindly into the mirror but after a moment jerked himself back to the present. It was, he assured himself, the height of sanity to waste time regretting another girl when a luscious little darling like Lia Garenne would be meeting him in the lounge in five minutes. He leaned forward to settle his black tie and presently he began to whistle softly.

Miss Lia Garenne, eh? Where had he heard that name Garenne? Well, before the evening was much older he'd have the dope on this young epigame. He slipped into his coat, smoothed his black hair once more, caught up his hat and, stepping into the hall, closed the door behind him.

Miss Lia Garenne made an effective entrance when, carrying a crimson velvet wrap, she came slowly down the stairs into the lobby. Against the unrelieved white satin of her gown her skin glowed with the tone of golden honey. Her hair, like the star-pointed lashes that fringed her dark eyes, was blue-black as a night sky and grew in a widow's peak low on her forehead. When swept back into crisp, upturned curls at the nape of her slender neck, her clinging frock discreetly revealed every line of her lovely body, its graceful sweeping length lent her height, but for all its French sophistication, she still appeared a delicate figure.

Val strode eagerly forward to meet her. His voice was deep and low when he asked, "Have you guessed how beautiful you are?"

As she stood above him on the stairs she favored him with a radiant smile. "You are a very handsome person your own self," she murmured. "That's the first kind word I've had in weeks," he beamed, "and it's balm to a bruised soul!"

Poems That Live

YOUNG AND OLD

When all the world is young, lad, And all the trees are green; And every goose a swan, lad, And every lass a queen; Then hey for boot and horse, lad, And round the world away; Young blood must have its course, lad, And every dog his day.

When all the world is old, lad, And all the trees are brown; And all the sport is stale, lad, And all the wheels run down; Creep home and take your place there, The spent and maimed among; God grant you find one face there You loved when all was young.

Nora Philbeam, the fourteen-year-old girl who is the star of "Little Friend" now to be seen at the Circle Theatre Thursday and Friday was never far from London when she was brought to New York by the officials of the Gaumont British company, the film's producers. To say that this intelligent little girl was impressed by what she saw, is to state the case mildly. Lodger is a famous hostelry, made the honored guest at dinners and receptions, photographed, interviewed, waited on and attended on like a little queen, young Miss Philbeam never lost her head.

AT THE GRAND

The genius of Ferenc Molnar reaches the screen in "No Greater Glory," an adaptation of his highly praised novel, "Paul Street Boys," accepted as one of them masterpieces of modern literature. Produced by Columbia Pictures, it is showing at the Grand Theatre.

The story is deeply moving on the sympathies, profoundly disturbing in its stimulus to thought, heartrending in its sincere pathos. Conflict between two groups of children to defend their rights taken on all the importance of a conflict between two warring nations — one seeking to defend itself from the other's acts of aggression.

Dr. Clendenning

Dr. Clendenning, M. D., is a recognized authority on air conditioning. He is a member of the American Medical Association, the American Association of Physicians and Surgeons, and the American Association of Air Conditioning Engineers.

The question of satisfactory indoor temperature would not be complicated if we kept in mind that man, under normal conditions, is a heat-generating animal and that heat is never added to the body from an outside source, under normal conditions, but is held or dissipated. When the air temperature does not exceed 84 degrees F. and 50 per cent humidity, the excess heat is dissipated from the skin to the air. When the temperature is above that point, in order to eliminate heat, the body dissipates it by means of water, or perspiration. The higher the temperature, the greater the amount of heat eliminated by this evaporative method, and at temperatures above body heat the entire elimination of heat is by this evaporative method.

So we know from this that when perspiration forms on any portion of the body an excess of heat has been generated and a secondary form of heat dissipation is being called on, and consequently a lower temperature of the surrounding atmosphere is advisable. Just how much lower than 84 degrees we are able to get it is not easy to ascertain. Experiments conducted with thousands of people based on a "temperature satisfaction" to the subject, resulted in the conclusion that 85 per cent of the people favored a temperature of 80 degrees with a 50 per cent humidity regardless of outside temperatures above 85 degrees.

Shock Feared

Various contentions have been made in the past that an indoor temperature should not be more than 10 or 12 degrees lower than the outside temperature because of shock.

On the face of it, this contention is absurd, as on a given day last would have followed this ruling would have resulted in New York residents being comfortable with an 80 to 82 degrees temperature indoors, and Kansas City residents sweltering with a 98 to 100 degrees F. indoor temperature which, with the combination of inside humidity, is very close to the limit of human endurance.

One reason given for using this 10 to 12-degree differential is that shock might occur going from a room cooled lower than that to the outside temperature. This, however, is discounted by the fact that we go from indoors to the outside in winter when the variation is as much as 30 or 90 degrees, and that we rarely take either a hot or cold bath without having a 15 to 20-degree differential between the water temperature and the air temperature. So, however, concede that there are cases of shock due to abrupt changes in temperature. However, there are cases of people being violently affected by eating strawberries, eggs, and other types of food, and air conditioning can no more cater to the unusual and eccentric than other living requirements.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. V. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

CAN SOUTH FULFILL HIS CONTRACT

THE TWO greatest thrills come to a player who discovers the one way to defeat an opposing contract, and the one way to fulfill an apparently hopeless contract, when opponents make no errors.

Recently I had the pleasure of playing the following hand at the Union League club, with Mr. John M. Draper for a partner. He possesses the happy faculty of spurring his partners to do their best.

♠ A 9 ♣ Q 6 5 2
♥ A J 10 9 ♢ 6 5 3 2
♦ A J 7 4 ♣ Q 9
♠ A 5 2 ♣ K 9 4
♠ 8 ♣ 7 ♢ 10 ♣ 8 7 6
♠ K 10 8 5 ♣ 6 3 2
♠ Q J 10 ♣ 8 7 6
♠ K J 10 7 4 3
♠ K 8 4 ♣ 6 3 2
♠ 3 ♣ 8

Bidding went: North, 1-Heart (third hand); South, 1-Spade; West, 2-Clubs; North, 2-Diamonds; South, 3-Spades; North, 3-No Trumps; South, 4-Spades; North, 6-Spades.

The opening lead was the K of clubs. Dummy's Ace won the trick. It also won the second trick with the Ace of spades and the third trick with the 9 of spades. When West showed out it was evident that only a double grand coup (by twice shortening my trump) plus a very favorable distribution of the two red suits could enable me to fulfill my small slam contract.

Dummy's 5 of clubs was led. East played the K. When I had ruffed and West played the 7, it was safe to assume that East still held the 4 of clubs. If East originally held 4 spades and 3 clubs he must also hold 6 red cards. Without in the least knowing how they were divided between hearts and diamonds, I had to determine that important point.

South led the 4 of hearts. West played the 7. Dummy's 9 held the trick, and East played the 2. As West had no reason to false-card hearts it appeared as if West held the lone Q, giving East originally 4 hearts and 2 diamonds. That was ideal for my purpose.

Dummy's last club was led. East's 4 fell. I ruffed. I led the K of hearts. As expected, West's Q fell and dummy's Ace held the trick. The J of hearts won the next trick. On the 10 of hearts, which won the ninth straight trick, was discarded my lowest diamond. East had left only the Q-6 of trumps and I held over him the K-J, ready to pick him up when he ruffed (or led) the twelfth trick, before I did. The Ace of diamonds won our tenth trick. Dummy's last diamond was led. It made no difference to me which opponent held that trick, but East was allowed by his partner to do so. East had to lead a trump and the twelfth and last tricks came to me, just enabling me to fulfill the contract.

Heard & Seen

BY KAY JAY

Motor racing fans were discussing the coming Decoration day classic in Indianapolis and, as usual, the talk went back to previous years and interesting experiences of Circleville residents who sat in the grandstand and watched the speed demons do their stuff.

The best "experience" story, however, may be credited to Kent McMullen who, in company with Paul Brown, Walter Stout and George Fissell, made his first trip to see the big race some 10 or 11 years ago. The quartet of young men saved up a few shekels for the journey, and salvaged an antiquated Buick touring car for transportation facilities. The dilapidated automobile body was wired onto the frame here and there, but, although minus the hood and other impedimenta, was pronounced mechanically perfect.

They purchased four new tires for the old bus, but due to some imperfection three of them went down before the boys reached Williamsport. After scouring the township for jack, patching materials, pump, etc., the journey was resumed. When they reached Indianapolis in the early morning hours they found thousands of other motorists bound in the same direction and, incidentally, for the same place, and the old Buick motor "died" at a traffic stop light and tied up two lanes of traffic (to four perspiring young men and as many traffic cops) an undesirable length of time.

They finally reached their destination and enjoyed the races, and faced the journey homeward with grim determination. The battery passed out on the way, leaving them in darkness, and no amount of persuasion would induce any service station owner to exchange it for one in working order, plus all the available cash and personal property in possession of the quartet.

"That's one trip I'll never forget," volunteered Kent. "With the hood off, you couldn't tell whether it was water, oil or gas that kept blowing back from the motor into our faces, but we had a good time just the same, and got a big thrill out of the races."

Two men forked a big Buffalo carp out of the Scioto river, south of the bridge on Route 22 a few days ago, which demonstrated a new method of fishing to me. I saw the two men wading knee deep in the water close to the shore and their activities aroused interest. Each man was armed with a pitchfork and was stabbing the water here and there. Finally one man gave a mighty heave and brought out a big carp stuck on the tines of the fork. The fish weighed 11 pounds.

Editorial Of The Day

OLD FASHIONED

In a moment of weakness a man in Batavia, O., stole a horse. Now he is under sentence to the penitentiary. In this modern age, when a woman flies from Mexico City to New York without even a stop-off to powder her nose, and when trains are being built to travel 200 miles an hour, it is somewhat of a shock to learn there is anyone so old fashioned as to fly a filly. He must have been an antique collector. The average individual these days wouldn't even know where to look for a horse, let alone know what to do with one if he found it.

TIGER COACH OBTAINS POST IN CINCINNATI

Herberholz to Begin Work As Head of Transient Service Athletics July 1

Coach Pete Herberholz, who has headed athletics at the high school for several years, will embark upon his new duties in Cincinnati July 1.

Herberholz has been named director of athletics for the Transient Service bureau operated by the city of Cincinnati. His work will be confined to afternoon and evening with the coach attending the University of Cincinnati medical school in the mornings.

He already has had considerable medical work in college and intends to obtain his degree as an M. D.

Mr. and Mrs. Herberholz and their daughter Barbara will leave about June 1 for a month's motor trip through the west, returning in time to begin work in Cincinnati July 1.

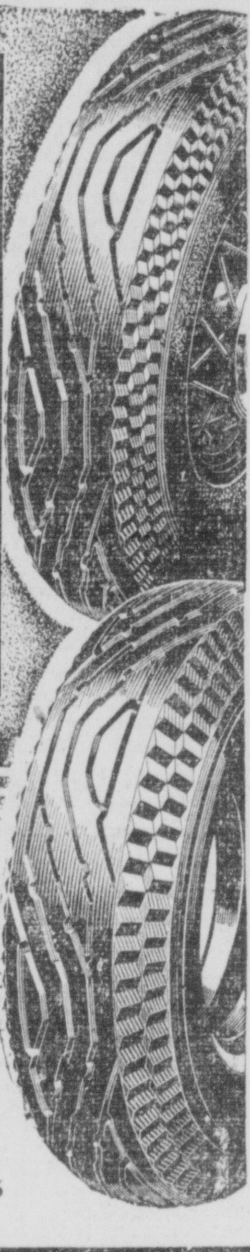

Herberholz' place in the high school will be taken by E. E. Reger, of New Philadelphia, coach at Orville for the past three years. Reger is an Ohio Wesleyan graduate while Herberholz graduated from the University of Illinois.

OSU to Welcome State Athletes

COLUMBUS, May 23—Ohio State university opened its doors today to welcome hosts of Ohio's best high school athletes for the 28th annual state athletic championships here tomorrow and Saturday.

Champions of four sports wound up training for the most crucial grind of the spring athletic season. Winners from eight districts in track, tennis, golf and baseball competition will move into the state capital tomorrow morning to joust for the most coveted athletic titles the state has to offer.

Watch for Stars

University officials, with a keen eye cocked for new Buckeye material, will entertain the visiting athletes royally. Nearly 3,000 students will move into the state institution's elaborately furnished athletic department. They will be escorted wherever they want to go, on the campus and fraternities will fete hundreds of boys who in the next few years may be the stars of Scarlet and Grey squads.

Drawing for the state baseball tourney tonight at the university will open the festivities. Play in the first rounds will open tomorrow morning.

Entrants in track and field events will dig their spikes into the stadium turf tomorrow morning for the first events, their eyes fixed on the state crown held by Toledo Scott, a favorite to repeat this year.

Track Teams Strong

Competition in the track meet is unusually keen this year, with Class A teams like Sandusky, B. C. I. R., Cincinnati Withrow, Chillicothe, Dayton Roosevelt, Cleveland East Tech, Cleveland Collinwood and East Palestine after the lion's share of honors.

The race for the Class B title, too, is expected to be a tight one, for nine schools have crack squads primed for an assault on Ohio track and field marks: Dresden, Upper Arlington, Delta, Euclid Central, Columbiana, Oak Harbor, Wheelersburg, Glendale and North Hampton.

Before the baseball meet is fairly under way, district winners in tennis championships will be opening their warfare on stadium courts at 1 p. m. Friday after drawing for positions at noon tomorrow.

Golfers will fight it out over the fairways and bunkers with two Cincinnati schools favored to lead the pack, Cincinnati Western Hills and Cincinnati Hughes.

HONOR MARANVILLE

PITTSBURGH, May 23—Rabbit Maranville, one of the greatest big league players, was to be honored here today by presentation of a handsome gift just before the Pirate-Brave game. Tonight he will be the central figure of a testimonial banquet. Babe Ruth, Pie Traynor and others will speak at the banquet.

TITLIST WINS CLOSE MATCH OFF BRITISHER

Lawson Little Comes Through Fourth Round In British Amateur, 2 and 1

ST. ANNE'S-ON-SEA, Eng., May 23 — Narrowly escaping disaster when he reverted to the uncertainty of his first day's play, W. Lawson Little, Jr., of California, survived the fourth round of the British amateur golf championship today by defeating H. G. McCallum of England 2 and 1.

With Little to victory went Dick Chapman of Greenwich, Conn., who routed Olav Austreng of England 6 and 4 but Captain A. Bullock-Webster, the New Zealander who lives and plays in California, lost to Morton Dukes of England, 4 and 2.

Little, defending his title against an imposing field, had difficulty all the way around but retained sufficient mastery of his clubs to survive the round.

Little was slow in getting started today, his fat figures for the first nine contrasting with near par-rounds of yesterday and Tuesday.

CINCINNATI, May 23—Thirty-seven crack golfers representing nine Ohio colleges — one of the largest entry lists in the history of the tournament — lined up at the first tee of the Maketewah Country club course here this morning for the first 36 holes of the 72-hole annual state intercollegiate championships.

The University of Cincinnati, by virtue of its experienced team, which with but one exception is the same squad that won the state championship a year ago, was an outstanding favorite. Western Reserve of Cleveland, also had a strong representation, however, and indications were that there would be a nip-and-tuck battle between the two schools for the championship honors.

Cincinnati's hopes were pinned mainly on Allen Joslin Jr., captain of the team and defending singles champion, and diminutive Tommy Hill who has been playing bang-up golf this season.

Check shows his 1935 Dodge gives 20 miles per gallon with ordinary gas

IN foreign markets, the high cost of petrol (gas) is one of a number of reasons for Dodge increased popularity.

And here in America, too, the amazing economy and value of the 1935 Dodge is scoring new high sales records in all parts of the country.

Writing of the remarkable gas and oil saving of his 1935 Dodge, R. T. Hall, Ballinger, Texas, says: "It is easily the most outstanding car that I have ever owned from the standpoint of economy and performance."

Press Box et al

Chillicothe's new athletic stadium is going to be equipped with everything necessary to make it modern—A press box is to be constructed on the 50-yard line at the top of the stands—It certainly is something to be able to sit in a well-located seat to cover athletic events rather than run up and down the sidelines to take notes.

 There will be room for six or seven persons in the press box ***

An innovation will take place at Redland field, Cincinnati, tonight when the lights will be turned on and the first major league game will be played under the incandescents—Paul Derringer is Manager Chuck Dressen's choice for hill duty—Play begins at 9—Philadelphia will provide opposition to the Redlegs.

Ford is Selected

A Ford V-8 has been selected as the pace car for the Indianapolis race Memorial day—Edsel Ford, son of Henry, has been invited to pilot the pace car but is not certain whether he can be at the race—The pace car must remain ahead of the field of cars for a full lap and that is quiet a job.

PATTERN 9333

The whole fabric world echoes with the words "Shantung," "Linen"—"Pique." The whole fashion world reflects "femininity" in its styling, even when the styling is decidedly tailored! So take a cue, and combine the two! For the casual little run-about frocks you need so many of, Pattern 9333 is the Right Answer. Charming in its simplicity, the yoke becomes a slashed excuse for a sleeve and a note of femininity is reflected in the simple bodice by means of front and back tucks. The clever detail of belt and pocket subtly conforms with the yoke styling. Choose novel crystal, wood or cork buttons. Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9333 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3 3/8 yards 36 inch fabric.

Let the MARIAN MARTIN SPRING PATTERN BOOK GUIDE YOU TO CHIC! Distinctive, wearable clothes are included in its forty beautifully illustrated pages. YOUNG BRIDE FOUND SLAIN IN OHIO CITY

Unclothed Body Found In Flaming Bed; Husband at Work During Crime

WARREN, May 23—Coroner J. C. Henshaw today termed the death of Mrs. Marie T. Tobin, 22-year-old wife whose unclothed body was discovered on a flaming bed in an upstairs room of her home here, a "plain case of murder."

The coroner said the woman had been stabbed in the temple with an ice pick which was found under the bed. Police expressed the belief she was the victim of a fiend.

The body of Mrs. Tobin, a recent bride, was found by firemen who were called by neighbors late last night when smoke was seen pouring from upper floor windows of the house. The body was lying on the burning bed, with only a towel wrapped around it.

Henshaw said the woman's jaw also had been broken and several teeth knocked out. The young woman's dog, a small fox terrier, was found stabbed to death on the floor beside the bed.

James F. Tobin, 23, the victim's husband, went to work at the Republic Steel Corp.'s printing plant at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, police said. He could give police no help in suggesting the possible name of his wife's slayer.

The Tobins were married several months ago and had bought the home here, police said. Mrs. Tobin came to Warren from Mineral Ridge, a few miles east of here.

Firemen said the blaze apparently was started by matches and that no kerosene was used. Damage from the fire was confined to the bed room.

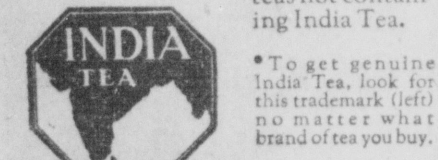

DAVEY WITHDRAWS CHARGE OF LIBEL

COLUMBUS, May 23—Governor Martin L. Davey today had withdrawn criminal libel charges on file in Licking-co court against Harry Hopkins, federal relief administrator. Hopkins is scheduled to visit Cleveland on Friday. The charges resulted from the relief controversy.

Democratic Senators at Stag Dinner Move to Close Their Ranks

WASHINGTON — A dinner party took place in the Capital the other night that did not get into the social news columns—and for a very good reason.

The gathering was a stag affair attended by some thirty Democratic senators, plus Vice President Jack Garner and Postmaster General Jim Farley. Host was Pennsylvania's bachelor Senator Joe Guffy.

Up to the cigars and coffee, the dinner was no different than any other social get-together. But the rest of the evening was very different. There was plain talking about personal and party matters.

Garner did not speak. But Big Jim Farley and Floor Leader Joe Robinson made up for him.

Joe charged flatly that "certain radical Democratic senators" were secretly allied with the Republican Party in an effort to destroy the Administration. The Arkansan mentioned no names. But his listeners had no doubt about the identity of at least one man — Kingfish Huey Long.

He concluded on a personal note: "As Floor Leader of our party in the Senate I have been the object of bitter attack from certain quarters. I want to say to you gentlemen that I am prepared to relinquish my post freely and willingly any time my colleagues desire me to do so."

This declaration aroused a dramatic response. Those present rose to their feet as one, cheered and applauded their floor leader.

Big Jim was no less frank. "I have been around quite a bit in recent weeks," he said. "And, just between us here in these four walls, there is no question that the Administration has lost some ground. That means we must close up our ranks, cut out this pulling and hauling and bickering among ourselves."

"You gentlemen have been taking it on the chin. Well, I too have been getting plenty of hammering. And I don't mean only on Capitol Hill. Some of my colleagues are a bit restless when it comes to co-operation. But I'm not complaining. The President is boss and he is the man I'm serving."

Brevity

A record for the shortest letter exchanged between Congress and the Cabinet is held by Texas' pungent Maury Maverick and Agriculture's Undersecretary Rex Tugwell.

They met by accident in a Washington restaurant, after Maverick had written Tugwell in plain terms about a speech of the latter and what Tugwell should do to improve the next one.

On meeting Tugwell, Maverick was surprised to find that the Brain Trustee was not so sure. When he got home he dictated a formal letter, the entire text of which read:

"I am glad."
In reply he received a letter from Tugwell which read:
"So was I."

Self-Appointments

At no time since the career diplomatic clique ruled the State Department under Calvin Coolidge have the career boys had such a field day as at present.

They are appointing themselves to all the ripest and juiciest diplomatic posts. A long list of these is in the works. It includes: George Gordon, now counselor of the American Embassy at Rio de Janeiro, who becomes American Minister to Paraguay.

Leo J. Keena, now consul-general in Paris, who is to be American Minister to Honduras.

PLAN OUTLINED FOR CLOSE OF CITY SCHOOLS

Graduation Rites to be Unique; Largest Class in History Listed

LEIST TO SPEAK

Next Tuesday Final Day for 80 Seniors

Complete plans for graduation exercises of Circleville high school were announced today by E. I. Gephart, principal. The commencement will be Tuesday, June 4, with the baccalaureate June 2 at the Methodist Episcopal church.

The commencement this year will be unique for two reasons. First, there will be no out-of-town speaker, members of the class and an alumnus having parts in the program. Second, the class is the largest in the school's history, 80 being candidates for graduation.

Four Addresses
Speakers will include, in the order they will appear on the program: Virginia Caskey, salutatorian, whose subject will be "The Boston Latin Grammar School," the first American high school organized in 1635; Marie Briner, valedictorian, who will speak on "Development of American High Schools"; Carl Leist, member of the class of 1926, whose subject will be "Development of High School Education in Circleville"; and Otis Mader, class orator, who will speak on "The Present High School."

The theme to be carried out in the commencement is the trend of high school education. This is the 300th anniversary of the organization of the first high school and is being observed nationally.

Other parts of the program will be: music by the orchestra, glee club selections, invocation, remarks by Supt. Frank Fischer who will explain the program; a violin solo

FIVE STUDYING RELIEF NEEDS

Investigators Sent Into Homes of Circleville Relief Clients

The relief program was speeded up today with Otto S. Coffey, director, sending five case investigators into homes of Circleville clients to determine the extent of their need.

Three investigators were sent here from C. C. Stillman's office in Columbus while Mr. Coffey transferred two county case workers into Circleville until the situation is cleared up.

Because the program was resumed at short notice it was necessary to issue emergency orders to provide clients with necessities. The case workers will determine to what extent they need relief, if they are now getting too much or not enough.

Urges Patience
Coffey urged relief clients to be patient.

Thursday morning a group of about 70 persons seeking relief filled the hall leading into the relief office. Mr. Coffey went into the hall to urge them to go to their homes and wait for the case workers to arrive. He made a brief talk in which he urged their co-operation and at its conclusion was heartily cheered by the clients, all of whom left the building.

COLUMBUS, May 23.—Seeking to "weed out" all persons not entitled to relief and also to determine whether legitimate relief clients are being aided on an equitable basis, all relief lists in Ohio are being re-examined, Charles C. Stillman, state FERA administrator, announced today.

Stillman said similar re-examination of relief lists are being conducted in all other states throughout the nation.

MAN FORGETS HE'S MARRIED 9 TIMES

CHICAGO, Ill., May 23.—Ralph Marks, 40, was waiting in a jail cell today to see how the law would attempt to cure him of the marriage habit.

It's a regular disease with Ralph. He's been married nine times and never bothered to divorce any of his wives. Twice he was sentenced to prison in New York for bigamy, but that didn't help. The last time he violated his parole from the Great Meadow prison in Comstock, N. Y., and is wanted there for breaking it.

SENATE MOVES TO BACK VETO

Votes This Afternoon; Margin of Four Seen; Thomas Warns of Oblivion

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Fighting desperately to override President Roosevelt's veto is the senate, friends of the Patman bonus bill today predicted political oblivion for those who failed to support it.

Twenty-three senators who voted against the same measure in 1932 are not here today, Senator

UNDERWOOD FOR BONUS

Congressman Moll G. Underwood, of New Lexington, voted with 12 other Ohio Democrats and four Republicans to override the Roosevelt veto of the bonus bill. Two R. publicans and four Democrats followed the lead of the president and voted against the measure.

Thomas (D) of Oklahoma, senate bonus leader told his colleagues in opening the final round of debate. "Where have they gone?" he asked. "They have gone to oblivion, and are forgotten."

Moves Toward Vote

Thomas' appeal came as the senate moved toward a vote on his motion to override Mr. Roosevelt's rejection. He had a fiery verbal barrage against the presidential reasoning in the veto.

Notwithstanding the last-ditch fight of supporters, a final check-up indicated that at least 36 senators would vote to sustain the president. That is four more than are necessary to prevent writing the bill into law.

The president's veto arguments said Thomas, were not justified. The Patman bill he said would help the nation to recover and pay a long standing debt to the veterans.

Now is the time the soldiers need the money, not 1915, argued the Oklahoman. No one knows, he went on, what the dollar will be worth in 1945. A ready it is worth only 59 cents in terms of the old dollar. It may have less value in 1945.

PAROCHIAL AID VOTE IS AGAIN TURNED DOWN

House Finance Group Voted 11-11 with 12 Needed to Pass Issue

BEATEN THIRD TIME

Hunsicker Votes to Keep Bill in Committee

COLUMBUS, May 2.—For the third straight time, the finance committee of the state house of representatives today refused to report out the Davis parochial school bill. The vote was 11 to 11. Twelve votes were required.

Defeat of the measure for the third time followed the appearance of Speaker J. Freer Bittinger before the committee to again urge that the bill be reported out to give the members of the House an opportunity of acting upon it on the floor.

Hunsicker Votes No

The committee's vote on the measure follows:

Those voting "yes" were: Boyd (D) of Cuyahoga, Traxler (D) of Wyandot, Kaner (D) of Shelby, Anderson (D) of Licking, DeRichter (D) of Cuyahoga, Lutz (D) of Richland, McInturf (R) of Morgan, Nixon (D) of Jefferson, Armbruster (D) of Henry, Kalb (D) of Ottawa, and Schwellert (D) of Putnam.

Those voting "no" were: Cordes (R) of Hamilton, Creevy (R) of Ashland, Hunsicker (D) of Pickaway, Jones (R) of Meigs, Mourey (R) of Summit, Johnson (R) of Fulton, Grubbs (R) of Fayette, King (R) of Vinton, Maxwell (D) of Deane, Metcalf (R) of Franklin and Rogers (R) of Lohain.

For the first time, the parochial school bill was labeled publicly as a Davey administration measure just before it was rejected a third time by the finance committee.

Addressing his colleagues in behalf of the Davis bill, which would appropriate $5,000,000 to parochial schools for 1935 and 1936 and $2,000,000 to colleges not now receiving state-aid, Rep. W. M. Boyd (D) of Cleveland, who frequently speaks for the administration,

Governor's Program

"The parochial school bill was a part of the governor's campaign and we should not kill it in committee. It was one of the governor's promises that, if elected, he would try to put this bill through the legislature."

After the bill's third defeat in committee, it was rumored that the rules committee might arbitrarily place it on the House calendar without the consent of the finance committee.

GOVERNOR VETOES GINGHER MEASURE

COLUMBUS, May 23.—The sixth veto message of the Davey administration, rejecting the Gingham bill which would have prohibited public schools from buying furniture and other manufactured products of Ohio penal institutions, was sent to the legislature today.

Davey said he saw merit in the principle of the bill, to take the government and its institutions out of competition with private enterprise, but sales of prison and reformatory made furniture are so small that there would be no perceptible benefit to industry by curtailing them.

On the other hand, the governor said, the Gingham bill because a law it would result in enforced idleness of 50 to 100 men in the maximum reformatory.

Hundreds Homeless in Texas, Oklahoma and Colorado; Rivers Swollen

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 23.—Texas and Oklahoma today anxiously watched the course of flooded waters sweeping wide lowland areas here and in the Guadalupe river valley of Texas.

Relief officials counted approximately 2,500 homeless in the two flooded regions.

The North Canadian river threatened to engulf the Oklahoma City lowlands where hundreds of families were ready to leave their homes for higher ground. One bridge was swept away near Yukon by the rampaging river.

The Guadalupe had submerged more than 90,000 acres of rich farm lowland in Texas.

DENVER, May 23.—Flood waters of Cherry Creek, swollen by almost continuous rains of the past two weeks, were expected to strike Denver early today.

Reports from the Black Forest southeast of Castle Rock, Colo., said the stream was overflowing its banks there.

Warnings were sent to persons living along the creek, which flows through the heart of Denver, to be ready to move out of their homes at the sound of police whistles. Special crews of workmen were called out to protect bridges and a ripraping project under construction.

Another half inch of rain had been recorded here today, the total Wednesday being 15 of an inch. Rain Thursday morning is believed to have boosted the total to one half inch.

A large tree on W. Mount-st fell into the middle of the road during the night, obstructing traffic. Workmen removed it Thursday morning.

SIX NAVY MEN LOST AS HUGE 'PLANE FALLS

Search Abandoned for Flyers, Victims of War Games in Pacific

TOLL IS NOW EIGHT

41 Planes Returning to Pearl Harbor Base

ABOARD U. S. S. PENNSYLVANIA, with U. S. Fleet, May 23.—The navy today abandoned search for the wrecked bombing plane in which six men lost their lives.

Rear Admiral A. W. Johnson, commanding the aircraft base force and in charge of the search, recalled planes and destroyers when only wreckage was found at the spot where the big seaplane crashed yesterday.

The recovered wreckage included a gasoline tank, a wingtip and a seacrew.

Those killed were:

Lieut. Harry A. Brandenburger, 37, of Illinois.
Lieut. Charles J. Shelly of California.

Chief Machinists Mate P. C. Little.
Chief Redman F. M. Derry.
Machinists Mate Q. A. Sharpe.
Machinists Mate P. J. Proteau.

The lost plane was one of the 43 big bombers which flew from Pearl Harbor to Midway island two weeks ago and since had been operating as part of Rear Admiral A. J. Heppburn's "Black" fleet in the navy's war games.

Set Fine Record

A remarkable record had been established by the plane, the first to ever fly over Midway island. During the third phase of the fleet problem the big bombers have been operating night and day, sometimes going as far as 600 miles from their anchorage.

Monday another plane was wrecked but the crew was rescued by the destroyer Montgomery. This plane, operating as a scouting unit for Admiral Harris Lanning's "white" fleet enroute from Pearl Harbor to take Midway island which was occupied by 700 marines from the "black" force which had swept down from the Aleutian islands.

The plane landed 90 miles north of Midway and sank just as the Montgomery took off the crew. Another plane made a forced landing when it came down out of oil at Layson island 70 miles east of Midway but a tug took oil to it and the plane returned safely to its base.

Reduced from 43 to 41 the squadron of bombers will take off for Pearl Harbor sometime today stopping tonight at French frigate shoals.

The squadron of 41 hopes to complete the 1,200 mile jaunt to Pearl Harbor by Friday night. As the search for survivors of the ill-fated bomber which crashed in the smooth sea, under a clear but moonless sky was called off the planes, cruisers and destroyers of the searching party headed for Pearl Harbor in the wake of Admiral Joseph M. Reeves and the remainder of the fleet.

Eight Lives Lost

During the third phase of the war games, eight men have been killed, and four injured. Three planes have been lost and four destroyers damaged.

The destroyers Euclyps and Decatur while fueling at sea were thrown against the battleships which were servicing them and damaged so badly they were forced to return to Pearl Harbor for repairs, but no personnel was injured on either destroyer.

FRIEDMAN STORE IS POPPY OFFICE

Saturday is Poppy Day in Circleville and the Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts sponsored by the Legion and Auxiliary will be on the streets selling these bright red poppies.

Poppies to you, perhaps, are just crumpled rosettes of crimson paper to wear once a year for memory's sake; but to the man whose thick, stiff, slow-moving fingers have fashioned them they are little, bright red doors to the land of opportunity. Their scarlet petals are not mere slips of tissue at all, but gay flags to signal pennies into their pockets; and to transform dragging, bleak hours into hurrying, sunshiny minutes.

The poppies which the American Legion Auxiliary sells on Poppy Day are made by disabled veterans in hospitals in our own state, and to some are their only means of self-support.

Poppy headquarters will be at Friedman's store, W. Main-st. Everyone should wear a Poppy Saturday.

DUFFY'S VISITING MANY FRIENDS HERE

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Duffy, of Cleveland, former residents of Circleville, are enjoying a visit among relatives here and renewing old acquaintances.

Mr. Duffy operated a grocery store in Circleville for several years, moving to Cleveland in 1909. His brother, Charles G. Duffy, former mayor, joined him in Cleveland a year later and they engaged in the publishing business. They recently disposed of the business and are now enjoying a well-earned vacation for an indefinite period.

Mr. Duffy stated that his youngest son, George, is director of a band in New York City and his organization, known as George Duffy's band, broadcasts a program twice each week over a national hook-up. The older son, Evan, is playing with a New York band now touring California. A daughter, Miss Ellen, is residing in New York.

Mr. Duffy said that members of the family always enjoy their frequent visits to Circleville.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Ward and Mrs. Emma Gehres, E. Union-st., motored to Cleveland, Thursday, to spend a few days. Mr. and Mrs. Ward went on business and Mrs. Gehres will visit her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Dresbach.

Recognition

Chairman Ambrose Kennedy of the House Claims Committee has a way all his own for putting a quietus on overzealous rookie colleagues.

At a recent meeting of the committee, Philadelphia's ambitious newcomer J. Burrwood Daly spoke long and loud on the legal aspect of a number of bills under consideration.

Kennedy listened patiently. When Daly finally concluded Kennedy gravely moved that thereafter all claim cases requiring a legal opinion be turned over to the Philadelphia for a written report.

The motion passed unanimously and Daly was preening himself on this unexpected recognition when Kennedy quietly observed:

"The distinguished member will be pleased to know, I am sure, that we already have 1400 cases on file awaiting his learned attention."

Merry-Go-Round

Motor moguls secretly are much perturbed over word that the NRA Planning and Research Division is preparing another critical report on the industry. The Division's first report severely condemned a number of labor practices in operation in auto plants.

The Washington office of the Automobile Manufacturers' Association has added several former NRA officials to its staff, but it has not headed off the new investigation. Lean-faced Harper Sibley, new head of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, although a banker by profession owns a 4,000-acre ranch in California, a 350-acre farm near Rochester, N. Y., and is the largest individual land owner in Illinois. His corn farm in that state is the largest in the world and his AAA crop reduction check last year ran into five figures.

Of the Senate's 96 members, 87 either have practiced law or have had legal training. Many have been, or still are, newspaper publishers. With membership on nine committees, Maine's soft-spoken Senator Wallace White has the largest number of committee assignments in Congress. Huey Long's newspaper, The American Progress, carries the Blue Eagle upside down. In fact it carries two Blue Eagles upside down. Huey explains this as the "Double Eagle."

This becomes the responsibility of the bank's officers and employees, who may show by their courtesy and friendly cooperation, that they appreciate your patronage and wish to work for your best interests.

You will find this spirit here at all times. We enjoy every opportunity you give us to be of service to you.

SENIORS HAVE THEIR SAY
THEY are beginning to appear in the news of the day — the most popular member of the graduating class, the one voted most likely to succeed, the most beautiful (or either sex), the best dresser, the biggest fusser, and all the rest. They join the outsiders of former years, some to go on to further triumphs in life, some to fade into obscurity, mostly by the way of matrimony and such dull pursuits.
Times have not been propitious for these choices in all cases, although as a general proposition the clever boy or girl remains clever through life. The young minds that make the selections are not fooled as often as one might suppose. So there is hope for the college heroes and heroines, even for the biggest fusser. And to be known as the best dressed man of the class of '35 is not, in itself, anything to worry about. It may help in getting that needed job.
Beauty, prizes, be it not the whole thing, even for the girls. The pictures that go with the stories prove that, although here is a universality of "smart-looking" young persons (in the old-fashioned sense of intelligence) that gives profound satisfaction. Some of those in the middle of the class, however, are likely to provide a majority of the really "successful" ones (the ones that make the most money) — a quarter-century from now. Of course the mere making of money is not a complete gauge of success, but as a usual thing it helps a lot.
Tastes change with maturity. Some of the glad answers of senior class questionnaires in men's and women's colleges may be bemused years hence on recalling the enthusiasm with which they voted for Ginger Rogers and Clark Gable as their favorite thespians. Censor rules in most of these replies and it reaches its apogee when the sweet girl graduates-to-be of Barnard admit that men are the most important single item in their minds. One wonders whether the same is true when they name champagne as their favorite beverage.
At any rate, for woe or woe, here they come with their preferences, characteristics, high aims, ambitions and what makes, in college, for popularity. Good luck to them in the fate that lies ahead.

It's a fast age. A boy dates a girl once or twice and the wedding is planned before he knows it.
The latest scientific theory is that the universe was born in a fog, which suggests that perhaps we've run the gamut and have gotten back to the starting point.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO
Meeker Terwilliger, prominent, Circleville attorney and president of the local Rotary club, was elected governor of the 22nd district of Rotary at a conference held in Dayton.
Mr. and Mrs. Harp Van Riper, of Watt-st., were hosts at a dinner-bridge at the Boggs hotel. Fourteen of the guests were residents of Portsmouth.

Probate Judge E. A. Brown delivered an address at a meeting of the Rotary club. His subject was "Wills and Their Value".

15 YEARS AGO
Members of the Order of Eastern Star from Portsmouth, Chillicothe, Washington C. H., Adelphi and Williamsport attended the annual inspection of the Circleville chapter, conducted by Deputy Grand Matron Anita Rowe, of Washington C. H.
The young ladies of the Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal church gave a party for the young men of the same organization. A comedy farce, "Help," was presented.

25 YEARS AGO
The report of the assessor showed that the Hartman farm of 3,929 acres produced 7,500 bushels of wheat, 3,900 bushels of corn, 1,500 bushels of potatoes and 600 bushels of beans. From the dairy, 126,000 gallons of milk were sold, and the Hartman herd produced 16,000 dozen eggs.

The handsome white marble baptismal font, the gift of E. E. Anderson to the Methodist Episcopal church, was formally presented to the congregation.

Pickaway Co. Republicans endorsed R. W. Dunlap for a third term as dairy and food commissioner.

money, other naval ships had come back to the continent that Jan had been unfair to him today. And yet, since she had meant her criticism in a friendly way, he wished that he had been pleasanter about it. Jan was a sweet kid. For almost a year they had been running across each other in Nanking, Hankow, Shanghai, and he was going to miss her like the very devil. His mouth twisted into a half-bitter smile as he remembered that Kent Townley was in love with her, that there was a moonlit voyage ahead of them, and that by the time the Taft reached San Francisco there would, no doubt, be another wedding gift for a hard-working young naval lieutenant to buy.
He paused to stare blindly into the mirror but after a moment jerked himself back to the present. It was, he assured himself, the height of insanity to waste time regretting another girl when a luscious little thing like Lia Garenne would be meeting him in the lounge in five minutes. He leaned forward to settle his black tie and presently he began to whistle softly.
Miss Lia Garenne, eh? Where had he heard that name Garenne? Well, before the evening was much older he'd have the dope on this young epigone. He slipped into his coat, smoothed his black hair once more, caught up his hat and, stepping into the hall, closed the door behind him.
Miss Lia Garenne made an effective entrance when, carrying a crimson velvet wrap, she came slowly down the stairs into the lobby. Against the unrelieved white satin of her gown her skin glowed with the tone of golden honey. Her hair, like the star-pointed lashes that fringed her dark eyes, was blue-black as a night sky and grew in a widow's peak low on her forehead. When she had finished adjusting the curls at the nape of her slender neck, her clinging frock discreetly revealed every line of her lovely body, its graceful sweeping length lent her height, but for all its French sophistication, she still appeared a delicate figure.
Val strode eagerly forward to meet her. His voice was deep and low when he asked, "Have you guessed how beautiful you are?"
As she stood above him on the stairs she favored him with a radiant smile.
"You are a very handsome person your own self," she murmured.
"That's the first kind word I've had in weeks," he beamed, "and it's balm to a bruised soul."

Heard & Seen
BY KAY JAY

Moto racing fans were discussing the coming Decoration day classic in Indianapolis and, as usual, the talk went back to previous years and interesting experiences of Circleville residents who sat in the grandstand and watched the speed demons do their stuff.
The best "experience" story, however, may be credited to Kent McMillen who, in company with Paul Brown, Walter Stout and George Fissell, made his first trip to see the big race some 10 or 11 years ago. The quartet of young men saved up a few shillings for the journey, and salvaged an antiquated Buick touring car for transportation facilities. The dilapidated automobile body was wired onto the frame here and there, but, although minus the hood and other impedimenta, was pronounced mechanically perfect.
They purchased four new tires for the old bus, but due to some imperfection three of them went down before the boys reached Williamsport. After securing the township for Jack, patching materials, pump, etc., the journey was resumed. When they reached Indianapolis in the early morning hours they found thousands of other motorists bound in the same direction and, incidentally, for the same place, and the old Buick motor "died" at a traffic stop light and tied up two lanes of traffic for four perspiring young men and as many traffic cops in an undesirable length of time.
They finally reached their destination and enjoyed the races, and faced the journey homeward with grim determination. The

Poems That Live
YOUNG AND OLD
When all the world is young, lad
And all the trees are green;
And every goose a swan, lad,
And every lass a queen.
Then bay for boot and horse, lad,
And round the world away.
Young blood must have its course, lad,
And every dog his day.
When all the world is old, lad,
And all the trees are brown;
And all the sport is stale, lad,
And all the wheels run down;
Creep home and take your place there.
The spent and maimed among;
God grant you find one face there,
You loved when all was young.

Editorial Of The Day
OLD FASHIONED
Ohio State Journalist
In a moment of weakness a man in Batavia, O., stole a horse. Now he is under sentence to the penitentiary. In this modern age, when a woman flies from Mexico City to New York without even a stop-off to powder her nose, and when trains are being built to travel 200 miles an hour, it is somewhat of a shock to learn there is anyone so old-fashioned as to filch a tidy, he must have been an antique collector.
The average individual these days wouldn't even know where to look for a horse, let alone know what to do with one if he found it.

AT THE CIRCLE
Nora Philbeam, the fourteen-year-old girl who is the star of "Little Friend" now to be seen at the Circle Theatre Thursday and Friday was never far from London when she was brought to New York by the officials of the Gaumont British company, the film's producers. To say that this intelligent little girl was impressed by what she saw, is to state the case mildly. Lodger is a famous hostelry, made the honored guest at dinner, and receptions, photographed, interviewed, waited on and attended on like a little queen, young Miss Philbeam never lost her head.

AT THE GRAND
The genius of Ferenc Molnar reaches the screen in "No Greater Glory," an adaptation of his highly praised novel, "Paul Street Boys," accepted as one of them masterpiece of modern literature. Produced by Columbia Pictures, it is showing at the Grand Theatre.
The story is deeply moving on the sympathies, profoundly disturbing in its stimulus to thought, heartrending in its sincere pathos. Conflict between two groups of children to defend their rights taken on all the importance of a conflict between two warring nations — one seeking to defend itself from the other's acts of aggression.

What Elements Constitute Proper Air Conditioning

Dr. Clendenning

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
WE NEED 34 pounds of air a day. Only three pounds of food and four pounds of liquid, but 34 pounds of air. In addition, we are at all times totally immersed in air, the movement of which is necessary to the performance of external body functions and to general comfort. Air conditioning, therefore, usually considered a luxury, is in fact a basic need when the function of air in our process of living is recognized.
Air, properly conditioned, is a health-generating animal and that heat is never added to the body from an outside source, under normal conditions, but is held or dissipated. When the air temperature does not exceed 84 degrees F. and 50 per cent humidity, the excess heat is dissipated from the skin to the air. When the temperature is above that point, in order to eliminate heat, the body dissipates it by means of water, or perspiration. The higher the temperature, the greater the amount of heat eliminated by this evaporative method, and at temperatures above body heat the entire elimination of heat is by this evaporative method.
So we know from this that when perspiration forms on any portion of the body an excess of heat has been generated and a secondary form of heat dissipation is being called on, and consequently a lower temperature of the surrounding atmosphere is advisable. Just how much lower than 84 degrees we are able to get it is not easy to ascertain. Experiments conducted with thousands of people based on a "temperature satisfactory to the subject," resulted in the conclusion that 86 per cent of the people favored a temperature of 80 degrees with a 50 per cent humidity regardless of outside temperatures above 85 degrees.

Shock Fared
Various contentions have been made in the past that an indoor temperature should not be more than 10 or 12 degrees lower than the outside temperature because of shock.
On the face of it, this contention is absurd, as on a given day last summer to have followed this ruling would have resulted in New York residents being comfortable with an 80 to 82 degrees temperature indoors, and Kansas City residents sweating with a 98 to 100 degrees F. indoor temperature which, with the combination of inside humidity, is very close to the limit of human endurance.
One reason given for using this 10 to 12-degree differential is that shock might occur going from a room cooled lower than that to the outside temperature. This, however, is dissipated by the fact that we go from indoors to the outside in winter when the variation is as much as 30 or 40 degrees, and that we rarely take either a hot or cold bath without having a 15 to 20-degree differential between the water temperature and the air temperature. It is, however, conceded that there are cases of people being violently affected by eating strawberries, eggs, and other types of food, and air conditioning can no more cater to the unusual and eccentric than other living requirements.

TIGER COACH OBTAINS POST IN CINCINNATI

Herberholz to Begin Work As Head of Transient Service Athletics July 1

Coch Pete Herberholz, who has headed athletics at the high school for several years, will embark upon his new duties in Cincinnati July 1.

Herberholz has been named director of athletics for the Transient Service bureau operated by the city of Cincinnati. His work will be confined to afternoon and evening with the coach attending the University of Cincinnati medical school in the mornings.

He already has had considerable medical work in college and intends to obtain his degree as an M. D.

Mr. and Mrs. Herberholz and their daughter Barbara will leave about June 1 for a month's motor trip through the west, returning in time to begin work in Cincinnati July 1.

Herberholz' place in the high school will be taken by E. E. Reger, of New Philadelphia, coach at Orrville for the past three years. Reger is an Ohio Wesleyan graduate while Herberholz graduated from the University of Illinois.

Announcement has been made in Ashville of election to the teaching staff of Miss Virginia Casteel, of Napoleon.

Miss Casteel will succeed Mrs. Stella Morrison, who has been in charge of physical education for several years.

While the new teacher is reported a splendid physical education director she would have to be excellent to continue the high standard Mrs. Morrison has maintained during her regime especially as girls' basketball coach.

Mrs. Morrison was not an applicant for the position her many duties at home and in business proving too heavy to continue teaching.

The popular girls' coach has completed her seventh year with the school.

OSU to Welcome State Athletes

COLUMBUS, May 23—Ohio State university opened its doors today to welcome hosts of Ohio's best high school athletes for the 28th annual state athletic championships here tomorrow and Saturday.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

Chillicothe Loses
Chillicothe high school's track team met its first defeat of the season Wednesday at the hands of Columbus Central, 52 to 75, with Kenneth Sansbury, Central star, finishing in first place in four events.

Press Box at
Chillicothe's new athletic stadium is going to be equipped with everything necessary to make it modern. A press box is to be constructed on the 50-yard line at the top of the stands. It certainly is something to be able to sit in a well-located seat to cover athletic events rather than run up and down the sidelines to take notes. There will be room for six or seven persons in the press box.

Softest in World
"Beans Reardon of the National league umpiring staff says his job is the softest in the world. 'All we have to do,' he explained, 'is let 'em yell at us for two hours every afternoon and the rest of our time is our own.'"

Reds Play at Night
An innovation will take place at Redland field, Cincinnati, tonight when the lights will be turned on and the first major league game will be played under the incandescents—Paul Derringer is Manager Chuck Dressen's choice for hill duty—Play begins at 9. Philadelphia will provide opposition to the Redlegs.

Ford is Selected
A Ford V-8 has been selected as the pace car for the Indianapolis race Memorial day—Edsel Ford, son of Henry, has been invited to pilot the pace car but is not certain whether he can be at the race. The pace car must remain ahead of the field of cars for a full lap and that is quite a job.

TITLIST WINS CLOSE MATCH OFF BRITISHER

Lawson Little Comes Through Fourth Round In British Amateur, 2 and 1

ST. ANNE'S-ON-SEA, Eng., May 23—Narrowly escaping disaster when he reverted to the uncertainty of his first day's play, W. Lawson Little, Jr., of California, survived the fourth round of the British amateur golf championship today by defeating H. G. McCallum of England 2 and 1.

With Little to victory went Dick Chapman of Greenwich, Conn., who routed Olav Austreng of England 6 and 4 but Captain A. Bullock-Webster, the New Zealander who lives and plays in California, lost to Morton Dukes of England, 4 and 2.

Little, defending his title against an imposing field, had difficulty all the way around but retained sufficient mastery of his clubs to survive the round.

Little was slow in getting started today, his fat figures for the first nine contrasting with near par-rounds of yesterday and Tuesday.

CINCINNATI, May 23—Thirty-seven crack golfers representing nine Ohio colleges, one of the largest entry lists in the history of the tournament—lined up at the first tee of the Maketewah Country club course here this morning for the first 36 holes of the 72-hole annual state intercollegiate championships.

The University of Cincinnati, by virtue of its experienced team, which with but one exception is the same squad that won the state championship a year ago, was an outstanding favorite. Western Reserve of Cleveland, also had a strong representation, however.

and indications were that there would be a nip-and-tuck battle between the two schools for the championship honors.

Cincinnati's hopes were pinned mainly on Allen Joslin Jr., captain of the team and defending singles champion, and diminutive Tommy Hill who has been playing bang-up golf this season.

the wagers to the post in feature. Each has entered in winner's circle at the track the meeting.

NEW ECONOMY OF FAMOUS AMERICAN CAR SWEEPS WORLD MARKETS

Check shows his 1935 Dodge gives 20 miles per gallon with ordinary gas

IN foreign markets, the high cost of petrol (gas) is one of a number of reasons for huge increased popularity.

And here in America, too, the amazing economy and value of the 1935 Dodge is scoring new high sales records in all parts of the country.

Writing of the remarkable gas and oil savings of his 1935 Dodge, R. T. Hall, Ballinger, Texas, says: "It is easily the most outstanding car that I have ever owned from the standpoint of economy and performance."

PATTERN 9332

The whole fabric world echoes with the words "Shantung," "Linen," "Fique." The whole fashion world reflects "femininity" in its styling, even when the styling is decidedly tailored! So take a cue, and combine the two! For the casual little run-about frocks you need so many of, Pattern 9332 is the Right Answer. Charming in its simplicity, the yoke becomes a slashed excuse for a sleeve and a note of femininity is reflected in the simple bodice by means of front and back tucks. The clever detail of belt and pocket subtly conforms with the yoke styling. Choose novel crystal, wood or cork buttons. Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9332 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3 3/8 yards 36 inch fabric.

YOUNG BRIDE FOUND SLAIN IN OHIO CITY

Unclothed Body Found In Flaming Bed; Husband at Work During Crime

WARREN, May 23—Coroner J. C. Henshaw today termed the death of Mrs. Marie T. Toben, 22-year-old wife whose unclothed body was discovered on a flaming bed in an upstairs room of her home here, a "plain case of murder."

The coroner said the woman had been stabbed in the temple with an ice pick which was found under the bed. Police expressed the belief she was the victim of a fiend.

The body of Mrs. Toben, a recent bride, was found by firemen who were called by neighbors late last night when smoke was seen pouring from upper floor windows of the house. The body was lying on the burning bed, with only a towel wrapped around it.

Henshaw said the woman's jaw also had been broken and several teeth knocked out. The young woman's dog, a small fox terrier, was found stabbed to death on the floor beside the bed.

James F. Tobin, 23, the victim's husband, went to work at the Republic Steel Corp.'s printing plant at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, police said. He could give police no help in suggesting the possible name of his wife's slayer.

The Tobins were married several months ago and had bought the home here, police said. Mrs. Toben came to Warren from Mineral Ridge, a few miles east of here.

Firemen said the blaze apparently was started by matches and that no kerosene was used. Damage from the fire was confined to the bed room.

DAVEY WITHDRAWS CHARGE OF LIBEL

COLUMBUS, May 23—Governor Martin L. Davey today had withdrawn criminal libel charges on file in Licking county court against Harry Hopkins, federal relief administrator. Hopkins is scheduled to visit Cleveland on Friday. The charges resulted from the relief controversy.

"YES I DRINK TEA AT LUNCH TIME!"

A piping hot cup of tea at lunch time means good-bye to "P.M. fatigue"—that drowsy feeling that overtakes you during mid-afternoon. It's cheering, brain-clearing, refreshing! Try good tea with your lunch. And be sure it's tea from India. India Tea, in packages displaying the trademark below, is better tea—price for price and grade for grade—than teas not containing India Tea.
